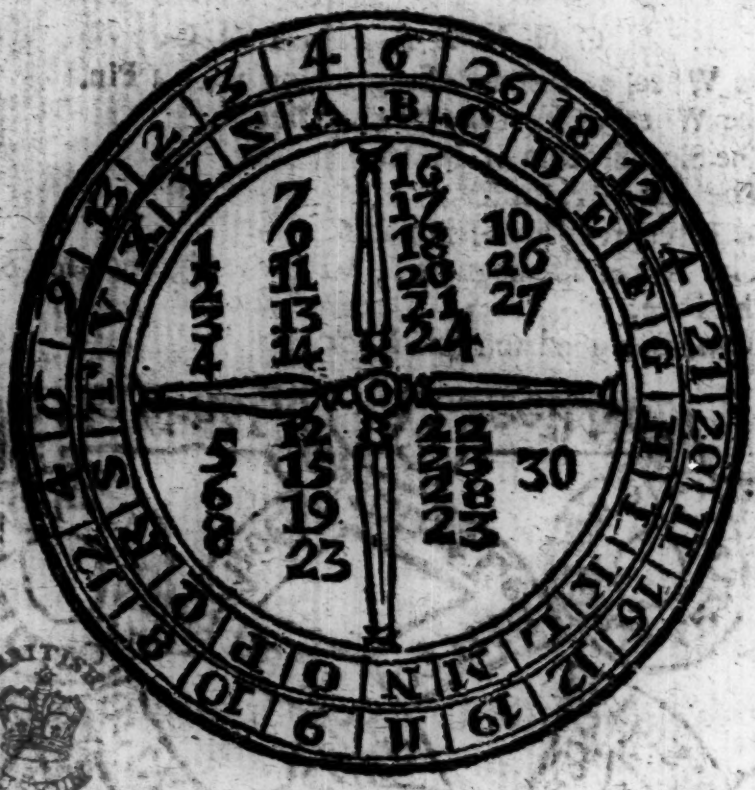
The Wheel of Fortune



LAY a piece of paper over the Wheel, and then, being firſt blind-folded, prick at it; and if it chance to light upon any of theſe Letters, your Fortune will be as follows.

If upon (A), you will marry a wife Perſon, but much afflicted with croſſes and poverty.

If on (B), the perſon will be of a mild and good Temper, and will be very rich.

If on (C) the perſon will be very turbulent, and will be always in Trouble.

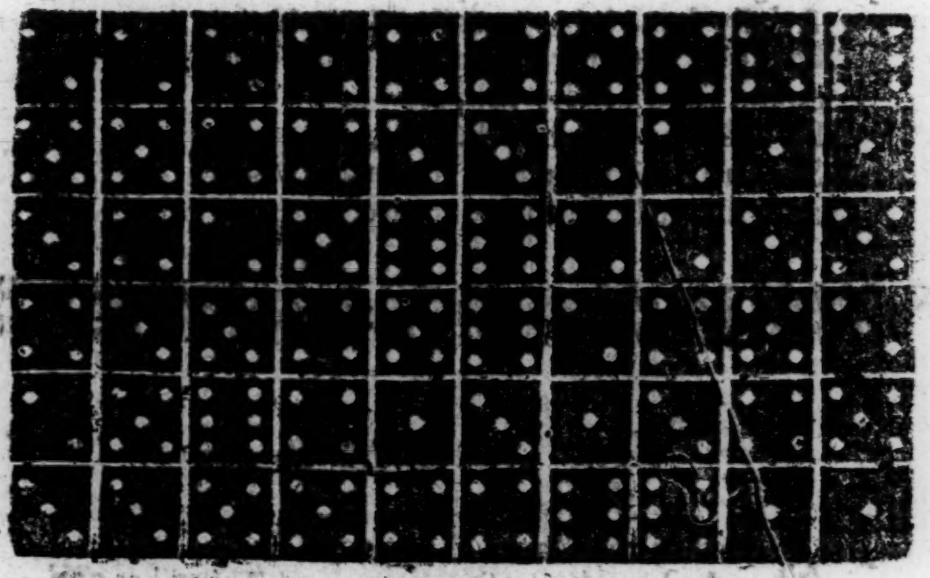
If on (D) the perſon will be wealthy and beautiful, and Marriage will be happy.

If on (E) the perſon will be fair of countenance, and very ſtable and kind.

If on (F) the perſon will be witty, but unkind.

If on (G) the perſon will be pale faced, ſlothful, and timerous.

The Wheel of Fortune by Dice



Note, You muſt throw with two Dice, and as the Number comes up, go to the Figures accordingly. For Example, ſuppoſe a man throws two Duces, let him go to Number 4, and there he'll find theſe Words,

Your Throw's unlucky; for ſhe that you will wed,
Unto another gives her Maiden-head.

For MEN.

2. SHE will be brown, and of a middle age,
A brisk and lively Laſs I will engage;
3. Two Wives thou ſurely wilt wed,
And they'll be conſtant to thy Bed,
4. Your Throw's unlucky, ſhe that you will wed
Unto another gives her Maiden-head.
5. Five times forty Pounds in gold,
Thou wilt with thy dear Wife behold.
6. Let not thy thoughts of her be proud,
Tho' ſmall ſhe is, yet ſhe is loud
7. A Maid you think her, but the ſtars ſay nay,
You'll be a Father on the Wedding-Day.

8. She will not ſpend, but thrive by her amours,
And bring with horns, great Plenty to your Stores.
9. Fair ſhe will be, and in her you will find,
Though not much wealth, contentment of the mind.
10. A jolly dame is for your bed deſign'd,
She'll gild your fortune by her being kind.
11. Be not fond of idle pelf,
This wife's a portion in her ſelf.
12. She's a peeviſh Baggage you may ſwear,
And will but little for you care.

For WOMEN.

2. A Red-hair'd Man will be your Lot,
And he to pleaſe you, a good Thing has got.
3. Two husbands thou art like to wed,
Both true and honeſt to thy Bed.
4. Thou one only art like to have,
And go before him to the Grave.
5. Husbands good are very ſcant,
Yet the one will not let thee want.
6. The unkind ſtars will not comply,
For thou a Maid art born to die.
7. In marriage thou'lt not have thy choice,
'Tis carried by thy Parents Voice.
8. The man who only doth thee charm,
He has a mole upon his Arm.
9. He is thy Lot, thou loveſt beſt,
Content thy ſelf, and be at reſt.
10. Tho' he does ramble, thou ſhalt ſee,
He will forſake each Laſs for thee.
11. The Spark thou hop'ſt for, ne'er will be
A Husband to ſuch a blouze as thee.
12. A huffing ſpark will lay thee down,
As any is in London town.
